

GLOBAL WEEK AHEAD

The weekend companion to the Daily Need to Know

Everything coming up. Week of Mon 14 September 2026. All times GMT+8.

Prepared Sunday 13 September 2026 (Hong Kong) - Forward-looking - Verify live prices and confirm scheduled times before acting.

1. Setup Snapshot - Where We Closed Friday

How the majors settled Friday 11 September (US close) and the read into the Monday Asia open. Figures are indicative last-session levels; confirm live before acting. Colour = direction of the day/print, not a recommendation.

Instrument	Fri close	Day chg	Into Monday
S&P 500	7,656.98	+0.86%	Relief bounce Fri; futures eye Fed
Nasdaq Comp	26,333.04	+0.96%	Megacap-led; rate-sensitive
Dow Jones	52,573.29	+0.98%	+509 pts Fri
US 10Y yield	~4.96%	up	Highest since Oct-2023; ~5% in view
US 2Y yield	~4.63%	up	Prices hike risk into Wed FOMC
DX1	~99.11	+0.06%	Firm on hawkish-Fed repricing
Gold (spot)	~$4,348	+0.71%	Off record highs but bid holds
Silver (spot)	~$65.6	+1.26%	Precious-metals bull intact
WTI crude	~$102.6	+0.1%	Above $100; Mid-East premium
Brent crude	~$106.1	-1.4%	Elevated; a key inflation driver
Bitcoin	~$77,200	down	Slid below $77k pre-CPI
VIX	~17.8	up	First close >17 in 28 sessions

The one-line setup: a Friday relief rally (S&P +0.86%, Dow +509) on a tamer-than-feared August CPI and a small oil pullback - but it lands into the most consequential central-bank week of the year, with the US 10Y pinned near ~4.96%, its highest since October 2023, and the market pricing a possible Fed hike.

2. TL;DR

Central-bank super-week. Three decisions in three days - the Fed (Wed, decision ~2:00am GMT+8 Thu 17th), the BoE (Thu ~7:00pm), and the BoJ (Fri) - dominate everything else. The Fed is the one that matters: with oil above $100, the 10Y near 5%, and new Chair Kevin Warsh sounding hawkish, markets price a ~62-69% chance of a +25bp HIKE to 3.75-4.00% (0% priced for a cut), plus a fresh dot plot. Add China's monthly data dump (Tue) and US retail sales (Wed). A hawkish hold or a hike into an already-stretched tape is the week's defining risk.

3. The Big Picture - What to Watch

(1) The Fed could HIKE - first move of the cycle in this direction

Current target band 3.50-3.75% (EFFR 3.63%). OIS pricing implies an ~81% probability of a hike at Wednesday's meeting; CME FedWatch puts a +25bp move at ~62-69%, with 0% odds of a cut - the debate is hike vs. hold, not cut. This is a Summary of Economic Projections meeting, so the dot plot and Warsh's first projections carry as much weight as the rate itself.

Watch: Own the statement + dots + presser as one event. A hike framed as "one-and-done" can paradoxically relieve risk; a hold paired with hawkish dots ("higher for longer") is the worst mix for long-duration equities and gold. Fade knee-jerk moves in the first 10 minutes.

(2) Oil + yields: the inflation-reacceleration loop

WTI has punched above $100 (Brent ~$106) on Middle-East supply risk, and that is bleeding straight into breakevens and the long end - the 10Y is knocking on 5%. This loop is the real reason a 2026 Fed hike is even on the table.

Watch: Energy and yields are the master variables. A sustained Brent break above ~$108-110 keeps the hawks in control and pressures duration, homebuilders and high-multiple tech. A pullback under $100 WTI would do more to calm the tape than anything the Fed says.

(3) China's data dump sets the Asia tone (Tue)

August industrial production, retail sales and fixed-asset investment land Tuesday ~10:00am GMT+8. Prior retail sales were soft (recent prints ~+0.6% to +1.0% YoY) and IP has decelerated toward ~+4.5% YoY. First big test for commodity currencies (AUD, NZD) and the China-beta complex this week.

Watch: A downside miss pressures AUD, copper and the Hang Seng and feeds the global-growth-slowing narrative; an upside surprise is a tailwind for materials and EM. Either way it frames how Asia trades before the Fed.

(4) US retail sales - the consumer, hours before the Fed

August retail sales print Wednesday 8:30pm GMT+8, the same session as the FOMC. July was soft at -0.6%. A hot control group would harden the hike case; a weak number complicates a hawkish Fed and revives the "policy-mistake" debate.

Watch: This is the last major US data point the Committee sees. A strong beat + a hike = bear-steepener risk; a miss + a hike = growth-scare risk. Watch the control group, not the headline.

(5) Positioning is stretched into a binary

Equities sit near highs, VIX had been asleep (first close above 17 in 28 sessions), and the tape enters a genuinely binary event with the 10Y at cycle highs. Gap risk in both directions is elevated.

Watch: Respect the convexity. With realized vol low and the event binary, defined-risk structures beat naked directional bets. Expect a compressed range Mon-Tue, then expansion Wed-Fri.

(6) BoE and BoJ - the under-priced tails

The Fed will hog attention, but two more decisions follow within 36 hours. The BoE (Thu) is expected to hold at 3.75% - but a growing minority looks for a hike, and any hawkish surprise there or a BoJ (Fri) hint at further normalization from 1.00% can move global duration and the yen.

Watch: The yen and Gilts are the cheap places to be surprised. A hawkish BoJ tilt is a global-duration and carry-trade event, not just a JGB story.

4. Economic Calendar - The Week Ahead (GMT+8)

Times converted to GMT+8; confirm against a live calendar as release times can shift. Consensus shown where reliably available.

Monday 14 September

- 20:30 - Canada CPI (Aug). BoC on an extended pause; prior ~+3.0% YoY. Watch CAD and the read-across to North-American inflation.
- Quiet US session. Positioning day ahead of the China dump and the Fed. The Emmy Awards (LA, Mon night US) are the cultural sideshow.

Tuesday 15 September

- 10:00 - China Industrial Production & Retail Sales (Aug). The week's first macro pivot for Asia. Prior IP ~+4.5% YoY; retail sales soft. Why it matters: sets the tone for AUD/NZD, copper, and China-beta.
- 14:00 - UK jobs (avg earnings + unemployment). Wages ~+4%+, unemployment ~4.9%. Feeds the BoE debate two days later.

- US: Empire State Manufacturing (Sep) - regional factory pulse; first September activity read (time tentative).

Wednesday 16 September - the big one

- 14:00 - UK CPI (Aug). Sticky at ~+2.6% (core ~+2.6% YoY). Frames the BoE.
- 20:30 - US Retail Sales (Aug). Prior -0.6%. Last consumer read before the Fed; watch the control group.
- 20:30 - US import/export prices, business inventories.

- 07:30 (Fri) - RBA Gov. Bullock speech. AUD/rates guidance.

Friday 18 September

- 14:00 - UK retail sales (Aug).
- 21:15 - US industrial production & capacity utilization (Aug).
- Monthly options expiry: watch for pin/roll flows into the US close.

5. Central Banks & Policy Events

Federal Reserve - Wed 16 Sep, decision ~02:00am GMT+8 Thu, presser ~02:30. Band 3.50-3.75%. Market: ~62-69% +25bp hike (CME), ~81% (OIS); 0% cut. SEP meeting - new dots and Warsh's first projections. A hike takes the top of the band to 4.00%.

Bank of England - Thu 17 Sep, ~19:00 GMT+8. Rate 3.75%. Consensus: hold; the rates market prices only ~25% for a hike now, with ~25bp priced for November and another ~25bp for December. Watch the MPC vote split and inflation language.

Bank of Japan - Fri 18 Sep, midday Tokyo; presser ~14:30 GMT+8. Rate 1.00%; hold expected. The signal is in the guidance - any hint at further normalization is yen-supportive and a global-duration event.

Also on the wire: RBA Gov. Bullock speaks (Fri AM GMT+8); BoC digests Monday's CPI. Fed communications are in blackout until the decision.

6. Earnings on Deck

A light but high-signal slate - bunched Wed/Thu and read as inflation and consumer tells more than index movers.

- General Mills (GIS) - Wed, pre-open. Fiscal Q1. Watch: pricing vs. volume and input-cost commentary - a clean read on food inflation.
- FedEx (FDX) - Thu. The classic global-freight bellwether. Watch: volumes, yields and FY guidance as a real-economy and trade proxy.
- Lennar (LEN) - Thu. Homebuilder into a ~5% 10Y. Watch: orders, cancellations, incentives/margins - the cleanest rates-sensitivity gauge of the week.
- Darden (DRI) - Thu. Olive Garden/LongHorn parent. Watch: same-restaurant sales and traffic - the discretionary-consumer pulse.

Together: food (GIS), freight (FDX), housing (LEN), dining (DRI) - a mini cross-section of the exact inflation/consumer questions the Fed is wrestling with, reporting in the same 48 hours as the decision.

7. Catalysts & Events

- FOMC dot plot / SEP (Wed): the single biggest scheduled catalyst - repricing risk across every asset class.
- China activity data (Tue): commodity-currency and EM catalyst.
- Monthly options expiry (Fri): elevated gamma and pin risk into the US close.
- Oil headlines: any Middle-East supply escalation is a live, unscheduled catalyst all week.
- Ahead (next week): UN General Assembly high-level week begins Tue 22 Sep - leaders' speeches and side-meetings start to hit the tape late in the week.

8. Rates, Currencies & Commodities - Levels to Watch

Rates. The 10Y at ~4.96% is the whole market's tell. A decisive break of 5.00% pressures equities and gold; a move back under 4.80% signals the hike scare is fading. The front end (2Y ~4.63%) will whip on the dots.

FX. DXY ~99.1 and firm. A hawkish Fed extends dollar strength (watch EUR toward the low-1.0x's, USD/JPY higher pre-BoJ). The yen is the asymmetric trade around Friday's BoJ. AUD/NZD hinge on China Tuesday.

Commodities. Oil is the macro swing factor: WTI $97-$107, Brent ~$106, Mid-East premium intact. Precious metals remain in a structural bull - gold ~$4,350, silver ~$65.6 - with pullbacks so far shallow; a hawkish real-rate shock is the main risk to the trade.

9. Hedgeye Risk Ranges & Regime

Regime. Consistent with Hedgeye's most recent published macro framing (late Q3 2026), the backdrop maps to Quad 3 - growth decelerating while inflation re-accelerates - the classic stagflationary lean that favours gold, energy, commodities and select international longs over long-duration growth equities and bonds. (Live Hedgeye Quad and immediate-term risk ranges should be confirmed against the current subscriber product; the digest tool was not reachable in this run - framing dated to late-Q3-2026 commentary.)

Indicative immediate-term ranges (derived from current price/volatility; use as a map, not gospel):

Instrument	Immediate-term range	TREND
S&P 500	7,470 - 7,720	Neutral / fragile
Nasdaq Comp	25,600 - 26,600	Neutral
US 10Y yield	4.78% - 5.02%	Bearish (bonds)
UST 2Y yield	4.50% - 4.72%	Bearish (bonds)
DXY	98.3 - 99.8	Bullish
Gold	$4,240 - $4,460	Bullish
Silver	$61 - $68	Bullish
WTI crude	$97 - $107	Bullish
Bitcoin	$73,500 - $82,000	Bearish

Where we sit / what would change it. We sit at the top of equity ranges with the 10Y at the top of its range and gold/energy trending higher - a textbook Quad-3 lean. What flips it: a decisive 10Y break back under ~4.80% (bullish duration + growth equities) would relieve the regime; a 10Y break of 5.00% with Brent >$110 would deepen it and pressure the S&P toward the low end of its range.

Read: use the low end of the S&P range to add and the high end to trim; treat bonds bearish, dollar bullish, gold/energy bullish as the working bias until the ranges break.

10. Positioning & Themes

- Crowded / stretched: long megacap tech and passive beta into a rate-hike tail; short-vol carry with VIX only just off the lows.
- VIX / vol: first close above 17 in 28 sessions - realized vol is waking up right as a binary event lands. Convexity is cheap-ish; own defined risk.
- Credit: spreads still tight - watch for any widening as the hawkish-Fed / high-oil combo tests the "soft landing" story.
- Tells to watch: the 10Y at 5%, USD/JPY into the BoJ, gold's reaction to the dots (a hawkish Fed that fails to knock gold down is a powerful signal), and homebuilders around Lennar.

11. Geopolitics - What's Live

Middle East / oil. The dominant market-moving geopolitical driver: supply-risk headlines are keeping WTI above $100 and feeding the inflation loop that has the Fed leaning hawkish. Any escalation is a live, unscheduled catalyst every session.

Russia-Ukraine. Prediction markets (Polymarket) continue to run active books on a peace deal and territorial control; a signed deal before 2027 remains a low-probability, high-impact tail for energy and European risk. Treat headlines as noise unless a concrete framework emerges.

Read: geopolitics this week works through one channel - the oil price. If Brent stays bid, the hawks stay in charge.

12. Asia Setup - Monday Open

Asia likely opens Monday cautious-to-firm, inheriting Friday's Wall Street relief bounce but with limited conviction ahead of a Fed that might hike. Expect a range-bound, positioning-driven Mon-Tue, with the real action starting at China's 10:00 data on Tuesday and building into the Thursday-morning (GMT+8) FOMC. Intraday tells: USD/JPY, the 10Y in Asian hours, and Hang Seng/AUD reaction to China data. A soft China print + firm oil is the risk-off combination to watch; a China beat + softer yields is the risk-on one.

13. Beyond the Markets - Coming Up

- Emmy Awards - Mon 14 Sep (LA). The 2026 Primetime Emmys headline the culture calendar as the week opens.
- SpaceX Starship Flight 14 - targeted Fri 18 Sep (~20:15 GMT+8, Starbase, TX). Next Starship test; dates slip often, confirm before counting on it. A Falcon 9 (Vandenberg) is slated for the weekend.
- Ryder Cup - late Sep (Adare Manor, Ireland). Golf's USA-vs-Europe showpiece tees up just after this week.
- UN General Assembly high-level week - begins Tue 22 Sep (New York). The leaders' debate opens next week; advance headlines may surface late this week.
